

Blackline contract review

Research and analysis, not legal advice.

Discussion does not mean approval, acceptance or completeness. Prepared marks may not yet have been discussed.

Includes the prepared contracts, marks, review issues and missing-document list. Your desk notes and conversation stay in the matter; they are not included as separate records in this PDF.

Missing documents — not reviewed

- Schedule A — project and authorised recipients

1. Discussed Five years from each disclosure

Author-written illustrative analysis. Renderer-generated marks, not a live AI result. Research and analysis, not legal advice. Discussion states are illustrative.

- Fictional Canadian NDA — source page 1; this PDF page 2 : “for five years following each disclosure.”

The clock starts with each disclosure, not once on signing. Information shared later may remain subject to this duty after earlier disclosures cease to be. A question for discussion: is a rolling five-year period what both parties intend?

2. Not yet discussed The project scope is in a missing schedule

This prepared mark remains in the kept review even though it has not yet been discussed.

- Fictional Canadian NDA — source page 1; this PDF page 2 : “Schedule A, which forms part of this agreement.”

Schedule A was not supplied and has not been reviewed. Without it, this example cannot identify the permitted project or authorised recipients. The source reference is verified; the missing schedule's contents are not.
